NORFOLK, VA., July 3.—The first of the racing boats to arrive from New York yesterday was the schooner Wayward. She is a sixty-eight-foot craft and consequently she had the advantage of the smaller craft, several of which were not more than thirty-seven feet in length and small in proportion. Two of them, the schooner Sunshine and the Sloop feared to continue the voyage in the rough weather, which prevailed and, therefore, they put into the Delaware Breakwater and telegraphed that they will follow later. The entire fleet followed the schooner down the const line, the Tameriale, making a record run for such a craft, and arriving across the line between Fort Monroe and Fort Wool at 11:53:30 A. M. yesterday. They all beat their way against head winds.

The Sunshine and the Peric have not serviced here, because they put in the Delaware breakwater yesterday, not wishing to face the head winds and the bad weather.

An important movement put on foot, was that of furnishing the house formerly used as the president's residence, lying midway between the two dormitories, and using it as an alumni building. The house is a large one, standing off to itself, and is an ideal one for such gatherings, with a wide stretch of campus on either side. When the plan was proposed at the meeting of the General Alumni Association, it was received with enthusiastic approval and a considerable amount, toward furnishing the rooms was collected on the spot.
